CREATIVE MUSIC WITH ACADEMIC APPROACH RESEARCH UNIT

Creative Music With Academic Approach Research Unit is a research unit focusing on creative music with integrating music theory. The research unit is organized by expert and professional artists. Our research outcome provides the innovative musical projects and new music approach. Our unit also supports a new generation to create advance music researches. The ultimate goal is to present creative musical art to the community and public at national and international levels.

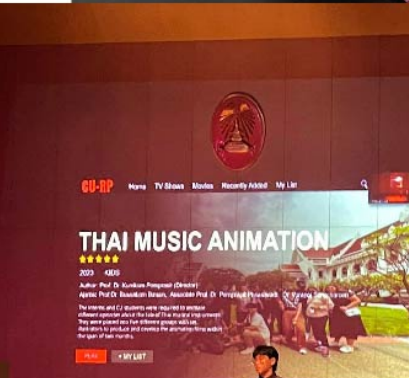

The aspirations for internationalism have marked an important chapter in the history of the Faculty of Fine and Applied Arts and have been realized with a strong commitment and in a sustainable way based on the faculty's academic strength. The faculty has entered into collaboration with a number of professional institutes, international organizations and the Faculty of Fine and Applied Arts Chulalongkorn University Alumni Association to establish international programmes. For student exchange programmes, these include one between the Department of Creative Arts and Birmingham City University beginning in 2000, for which 6 students are each year sent to study in the UK, and an internship programme with Republic Polytechnic in Singapore beginning in 2018, for which in the first year 12 Thai students from four departments went to Republic Polytechnic to complete their internship and 40 students from the Singaporean institute came to the Faculty of Fine and Applied Arts to complete their internship. Since 2002, the Urban Culture Forum has been organized by the Division of Thai Music in collaboration with the Urban Research Plaza, under an academic cooperation with Osaka City University, Japan. In addition, there have been opportunities in which the faculty presented its academic work and art exhibitions abroad, including the following four major events, namely the Asian Conference on Arts & Humanities 2017: Histories, Story, Narratives, organized by the Department of Visual Arts in Osaka Japan; the Chula International Music Forum and Concert, organized by the Division of Western Music; the ASEAN NETWORK for Music Integration Project, organized by the Division of Thai Music in collaboration with the ASEAN University Network- ASEAN Youth Cultural Forum (AUN-AYCF) Thailand; and the International Thai Cultural Camp, organized by the Division of Thai Music. Moreover, the faculty has signed agreements (MOU) with overseas universities for collaboration. The Department of Dance has signed an MOU with Yunnan University's Culture Development Institute, and the Department of Visual Arts has signed an MOU with Incheon National University's College of Arts and Physical Education.

INTERNATIONALISM

One other important milestone in the faculty's commitment to internationalism is how Chulalongkorn University, with the coordination of the Faculty of Fine and Applied Arts, was selected as host of the 45 International Council for Traditional Music World Conference in 2019, after having competed with proposals from 128 other countries. In addition, additional agreements have been signed with universities overseas for the co-development of international programmes in curatorial practice, music therapy and creative arts therapy and the exchange of students, faculty members and researchers, which will result in positive development in Thai society and the world.
